Portland Camera Club Waiver of Liability

Welcome to the Portland Camera Club. Although none of us can remember any incident of a member becoming hurt while attending meetings or participating in events, there are always inherent risks arising from your involvement.

With respect to ordinary meetings, should you operate, participate with, or otherwise encounter the club's equipment you could a) suffer an electrical shock, b) suffer a burn from the heat of the illumination of images, c) suffer eye damage should you be exposed to the bright lights of the illumination of images, d) become hurt if equipment were to break or fall upon you, e) become cut or wounded from handling sharp implements, even paper, and e) any other sort of unimaginable or unforeseeable outcomes which might arise from any sort of assembly of people.

With respect to field trips or other special events not held in our regular meeting place, there is always the risk that you, and your equipment, could be become hurt or damaged from a) common dangers from traversing places, e.g. falling off a trail, rocks, overboard from a boat, or dangerous locations, b) attacks from wildlife or encountering poisonous vegetation, and c) any other sort of unimaginable or unforeseeable outcomes which might arise from any similar type of excursions.

Accordingly, to participate as a member of the Portland Camera Club, you are expressly assuming the risks which may arise from your participation, and you therefore waive and relinquish any and all types of claims you might have or acquire against the Portland Camera Club, its Officers, Directors and any member in charge of a meeting, field trip or special events, expressly including claims for negligence.
